Wollaston excited at future for kiwi female riders after world success

Theme:
Voice & Visibility

Co-authored by Cycling NZ

2024 UCI TRACK CYCLING WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS, COPENHAGEN, DENMARK DAY 5

Ally Wollaston was edged out of a fourth medal on the final day of the UCI Track Cycling World Championships in Denmark today. The 23-year-old completed her breakthrough 2024 season with two gold medals, a bronze and a fourth placing, the most achieved at a single UCI Track World Championships by a New Zealand rider.

A fourth medal eluded the kiwi by countback in the 25kms points race, finishing tied for third with Ireland’s Lara Gillespie who earned the bronze medal after finishing ahead of Wollaston in the final sprint. The kiwi star was only four points from the gold medal, after being strongly marked for much of the race. She led the points for a significant time, but could not convert two impressive moves into bonus points for lapping the field, which would have secured victory.

“It was such a tough race. I left it all out there. I made some key mistakes. I am looking forward to watching it, learning from my mistakes and coming back next year and giving it another crack,” said Wollaston.

Wollaston became the first kiwi track rider to win two rainbow jerseys and bag three medals at a single world championship.

“If you had told me a week ago that I would walk away with three medals this week, I wouldn’t have believed you,” said Wollaston.

“My first scratch race was my first elite world’s medal – so to come away with my first medal, and then first and second world champs jerseys is pretty amazing.

“I am blown away with this week and so happy to be part of a small but mighty New Zealand team. Even to come here with myself and Bryony and walk away with three medals myself and she won a well-deserved bronze medal. It is super cool and something really amazing to be part of.”

It brought the curtain down in a remarkable year for Wollaston. It began with her first World Tour stage win on the road at the Tour Down Under in Australia; two medals at the Paris Olympic Games on the track; signing to a new WorldTour professional road team; and completing her remarkable year with three medals including two rainbow jerseys at the UCI Track World Championships.

“I am so proud of what I have achieved in the last 12 months and really looking forward to resetting, thinking of some new goals and letting it rip for the next season.

“It is an exciting year and exciting future for female riders in New Zealand at present. The rise of the women’s team pursuit is such a great reflection of women’s sport in New Zealand and in particular cycling and to be a part of that movement is really important and quite a big driving factor in why I do what I do.

“I am grateful now to have some time off the bike, go on holiday and spend some time with loved ones and reflect on what an amazing 12 months it has been.”
